

Meet Christina, Baby Sensory's Master Franchisee for Scandinavia and Benelux.

My name is Christina Bonde Hansen. I am the master franchisee for Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg.

I was born in 1969 and I have a master's degree in law from University of Copenhagen in 1997. I have since then worked for number of Denmark's largest companies specializing in tax and corporate law. I am married and in 2005 I gave birth to my son Thomas and in 2007 to my daughter Caroline. It was during my last maternity leave that I found that I needed a new challenge and I decided to look for something more content filled and rewarding. But I had no clear idea of what it should be - apart from that I certainly knew that it should have something to do with children.

I first came across Baby Sensory when I was on my way back from a short trip to London in July 2009. I was reading an article on the plane and it immediately caught my interest. I soon made arrangements to go back to the UK and visit one of Lin day's classes and after having experienced a Baby Sensory class I was hooked! Baby Sensory has everything and when I saw the joy on the faces of the parents and babies I couldn't think of a better and more meaningful product to take back and introduce to Danish parents. The Baby Sensory team in the UK is fantastic people to work with and they have made it really easy for me to launch my new business and provide me with the necessary training, support and inspiration. Lin Day is an inspirational teacher and I am proud to be associated with her Baby Sensory Programme.

I find it incredibly rewarding to see parents and babies bond and spend special quality time together. I consider it a privilege to share these special moments, and I love working with babies in their first important year of life.
